Hot off the press!!

David: “Language study is something that continues every day for a gringo. Cultivating an ear for what’s being said at a machine gun pace, and learning the vocabulary, is always a challenge. Just yesterday I learned that a taco is also a wall-anchor insert or a woman’s shoe heel!

New opportunities for ministry continue to open up as relationships develop over time. We hope increased financial support will allow us to remain in Chile long enough to see them bear fruit. Please pray specifically for two Chilean Christians I work with, Javier (“Ha-vee-air”) and Enrique (“En-ree-kay”), as they prepare to be pastors someday.

Thanks to many of you who have written encouraging letters and e-mails over the past few months. They’ve meant a lot to us.

Please remember to pray for my father also—that the Lord would remove his cancer. Recent tests have shown it to still be spreading.”

Elsie: “Hello everyone! Thanks for the letters/e-mails! Amy and I have a Spanish tutor now who comes over every Monday. We read stories from a Spanish book that’s actually written for eight-year-olds. Our teacher is also fluent in French, so we are learning some of that too! I am enjoying the warm weather now, but Christmas is going to be really different this year! God bless, Elsie”

Chris: “I am so thankful that my father and mother were able to travel down to be with us for almost 2 weeks this past month. It was such a blessing to have them here, and it was fun to introduce them to many of our friends. During their visit, they helped us host a work team from the States and a “Thanksgiving dinner” for my English class.”

Will: “On Thanksgiving we are going on a school field trip. We are going to the desert north of here and will be gone for several days. We will visit an astronomical observatory and some geysers. I am looking forward to it.”

Amy: “I am enjoying my Senior year of high school a lot! I consider this time abroad as a great opportunity for learning new cultures and languages. I like music very much, and am currently playing violin, guitar, and mountain dulcimer (a stringed instrument of Appalachia). I still do not have friends down here, but God has helped me not to be discontent, and is teaching me a lot of things.”

Peter: “In school I am building a rocket with Will and my dad. On my free time I like to play with Legos and games on the computer. I like to go swimming almost every day. I’m looking forward to our school field trip and Christmas.”
